

Chilly Welcome in Netherlands

Rock Hits Hirohito Car Windshield

By John M. Lee THE HAGUE, Oct. 8 (NYT).—Emperor Hirohito of Japan was the target of mild protest today on his arrival in the Netherlands for the most controversial phase of his European goodwill tour.

limousine was cracked by a stone hurled by an unknown demonstrator. The incident occurred as the emperor was returning to The Hague from a visit to Rotterdam and the Erasmus observation tower.

There were no Japanese flags and almost no crowds. At the emperor's residence in The Hague, a former Dutch prisoner of war picketed with a sign in English: "I owe it to my dead fellow POWs to protest against the arrival of a murderer."

Using Humans to Test Effect Of Atomic Rays on Humans

(Continued from Page 1) years, the Cincinnati group headed by Dr. Saenger, has published little about it in the scientific literature. The only complete accounts of their work have appeared in their annual reports to the Pentagon.

One report titled "Performance Decrements in Persons With Small Dose Radiation" ran in the Archives of General Psychiatry a year ago. A second study called "Biochemical Indicators of Radiation Injury in Man" appeared in a summary of a conference sponsored by the World Health Organization earlier this year.

"It's true we've not had a well-defined study comparing whole-body radiation to other forms of treatment," Dr. Saenger said. He said that his research project has been approved every year by the Dean's Committee on Human Research at the University College of Medicine.

Dr. Evelyn Hess, the chairman of the Dean's committee, said the medical school takes "extremely elaborate precautions" to make sure that any studies on humans follow guidelines set up by the National Academy of Science-National Research Council.

But she said she did not know that the studies were funded by the Pentagon's Defense Nuclear Agency. Nor, she said, did she know their purpose was to study the effects of radiation on combat troops—not to find better methods to treat cancer patients.

"I don't know who funds the studies," she said in a telephone interview. "That's not our purpose. We make sure the research is good and safe. Those are the main criteria."

Dr. J. A. Northrup, the Defense Nuclear Agency's deputy director for science and technology, disclaimed any responsibility for the selection of patients or their treatments. "That isn't us. It's the University of Cincinnati. We are not paying for treatment. We are paying for specific studies to test the effects of radiation on humans," he said.

Veterinarian Heads Project

These studies, explained Lt. Col. John W. Cable, a veterinarian who is the Defense Nuclear Agency's medical officer for the project, would not normally be done in the routine treatment of cancer patients.

They include detailed examinations on the effects of radiation on the patient's blood cells, their chromosomes, their metabolic process and their ability to think.

"We are getting valuable data to show what changes occur," said Col. Cable.

Nevertheless, he and Dr. Northrup said this is the only research project of its kind that the Nuclear Defense Agency is funding.

The agency is sponsoring other studies on the effects of radiation on animals, they said. But both they and Dr. Saenger agreed that it is hard to apply animal data to humans.

Dr. Northrup said that the Nuclear Defense Agency "is latching on to glean whatever data we can from an existing project."

"We have the responsibility of being able to establish the capability of a military person to function in a nuclear environment," he added. "Nuclear war is still a real threat."

Cincinnati's Dr. Silberstein is convinced that the project will advance medicine in ways that have nothing to do with a nuclear battlefield. He said that three of the 111 patients treated so far were children with a disease called Ewing's tumor, which has proven completely resistant to drugs or local radiation.

"Our three children are alive and healthy from one and a half to three years after being given total-body radiation," Dr. Silberstein said. "One of them won the Indiana dribble, pass and shoot championship for 10-to-12-year-olds. We're proud of that."

Dr. Saenger said he believes in the worth of the project, no matter what controversies might swirl around it.

"There is a need to investigate the effects of radiation on human beings to give support to the military," he said. "These are tough problems that should not be swept under the rug, and I personally think the work we're doing is damned important."

Healthy Looking, Jovial Mao Grets Selassie in Peking

PEKING, Oct. 8 (Reuters).—Chairman Mao Tse-tung, joking and in a jovial mood, met Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia tonight and talked with him for almost two hours.

Some close to the Ethiopian monarch here said the 77-year-old Chinese leader looked "very well, indeed" when he met the emperor in Peking's Great Hall of the People.

The chairman took the emperor by the hand and the two elderly leaders entered the Hall's Peking Room for talks lasting one hour and 40 minutes, according to the sources.

"Let us liberate ourselves [from photographers] and have a talk," said Chairman Mao, who was last seen in public Aug. 7, when he received Burmese head of State Ne Win.

The sources said Chairman Mao was cracking jokes in Chinese and was in a jovial mood during the meeting.

There had been speculation abroad that Chairman Mao was ill or dead following cancellation of the Oct. 1 National Day parade here.

During the meeting, the Chinese leader posed for photographs with various Ethiopian visitors. Premier Chou En-lai, who conferred yesterday with the emperor, also was present.

The emperor had spent a full day before meeting the chairman, visiting the Great Wall of China and touring Peking's Imperial Palace.

However, Dutch security officials expressed relief that there had not been more serious incidents. There has been an air of apprehension about the visit in view of the coolness of the Dutch government, the hostility of the Dutch news media and the emotional opposition stirred by a cabaret comedian.

The comedian, Wim Kan, 59, a Dutch celebrity, was a Japanese prisoner in Burma during World War II and kept a diary of his mistreatment. Mr. Kan has repeatedly called for protest against the emperor's visit. His demand for free television time last night was refused by the state-owned network.

The Dutch government has been at pains to emphasize that this is an unofficial visit and the scheduled luncheon with Queen Juliana tomorrow is the minimum courtesy to be expected from one monarch to another.

But the welcome extended to Emperor Hirohito and Empress Nagako today was so spartan that it embarrassed officials of the Japanese Embassy here.

The emperor's visit to Denmark that began on Sept. 27 was also an unofficial one, but King Frederik went to the airport, a royal marquee was erected and Japanese flags flew throughout Copenhagen.

Today, there were no flags, no red carpet and no royalty as the emperor, chartered Japan Air Lines DC-8 arrived at Amsterdam's Schiphol Airport from London just after midday. Newsmen were taken by bus to the runway where the emperor was met by the grand chamberlain of the Dutch court and the mistress of the robes.

A bullet-proof limousine was brought up for the emperor, and his motorcade raced at 75 miles an hour to The Hague under tight police security as helicopters watched the route. The imperial party is staying at a secluded royal palace, Huis Ten Bosch.

After a tour of Amsterdam tomorrow, the emperor leaves Sunday for a one-day visit to Geneva before beginning his state visit to West Germany, the last stop of his European tour.

Officials traveling with the emperor acknowledge that the Netherlands is the most difficult stop of the trip. Some 200,000 Dutch citizens were imprisoned by the Japanese in the former Dutch East Indies and memories of the war are far more vivid here than in Britain.

Although most historians believe Hirohito played a passive, if acquiescing, role in Japanese aggression, the fact that war was waged and war crimes were perpetrated in his name has made him the equal of Hitler to many Dutchmen.

A high official of the Japanese court, Shigenobu Shima, grand master of ceremonies, said at a news conference that the emperor had particularly wanted to visit the Netherlands in the hope of improving relations.

But Dutch journalists were hostile in their questioning and they argued that the visit by Hirohito himself, rather than by, say, Crown Prince Akihito, who is only 37, had reopened old wounds.

"We don't think relations will be damaged by the visit," Mr. Shima said. A woman journalist, Jos Hagere, who was born in Sumatra in a Japanese prison camp and who had persistently upbraided Mr. Shima, retorted: "Don't you have any feelings for this at all?"

"Many things happen in wartime," Mr. Shima said evenly. His voice was calm, but his hand shook as he poured a glass of water.

Pole Flees to Sweden By Hiding in Barrel

TRELLEBORG, Sweden, Oct. 8 (AP).—A 41-year-old Pole succeeded in escaping from Katowice in Poland to Sweden, police said today, by hiding in a barrel for seven days in a freight train.

Completely exhausted, the man asked for the West German consulate. He intended to go to West Germany where he has relatives, police said, adding that the escapee left a wife and five children in Poland.

A CONDENSED STORY—With anxious eyes, four-year-old Daniel Molliterno of Middletown, N.Y. watches helplessly as volunteer firemen try to get him out of a 40-gallon milk can. It was easy to squeeze himself into, but getting out was another matter. After trying grease and eggs, the rescue team finally had to cut the can to free the frightened but wiser child. He was probably punished and sent right off to bed without any dinner and, of course, without any milk.

U.S. Planes Key to Victory At Krek, Saigon General Says

SAIGON, Oct. 8 (AP).—A top South Vietnamese field commander today credited U.S. air support with turning the tide of battle along the Cambodian border and said it demonstrated the need for such support to continue.

"I think the U.S. air support has made the difference," said Lt. Gen. Nguyen Xuan Thinh. "The tide of battle has changed because of the actions of the Air Force."

Gen. Thinh was referring to heavy aerial bombing attacks and logistical support given his troops in turning back a North Vietnamese offensive along the Vietnam-Cambodia frontier in the last two weeks.

New Flareup Reported

Fighting tapered off sharply on Tuesday with the withdrawal of the main force of North Vietnamese troops. But military spokesmen reported a new flare-up today, claiming 50 North Vietnamese killed, near the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Krek.

There also were reports today of continued Communist pressure on South Vietnamese Fire Base Alpha, 3.5 miles east of Krek, and on a U.S. artillery base, Fire Base Pace, located just inside Vietnam, seven miles to the south, and a small clash farther south in War Zone C.

Sources said U.S. tactical fighter-bombers have flown as many as 700 combat strikes since the North Vietnamese launched their drive Sept. 26 in the frontier region: 80 to 90 miles north-west of Saigon.

All South Vietnamese forces in Cambodia are still being supplied by air because Route 22, which runs north from the city, Ninh forward headquarters to Krek, remains cut on the South Vietnamese side of the border. Armor-backed government tank forces have been trying for several days to reopen the last five miles of the road south of Fire Base Pace.

Meanwhile, it was announced today that a U.S. Air Force Phantom squadron is to be sent back to the United States as part of the American troop outflow. A spokesman said the 388th Tactical Fighter Squadron of the Seventh U.S. Air Force would be the first F-4 squadron to leave Vietnam since the pullout of American troops began in mid-1969.

He said the 20 to 24 Phantoms of the squadron would be sent back to the United States and its 600 personnel members assigned to other units in Vietnam or flown home.

Qadhafi vs. His Libyan Colleagues

(Continued from Page 1) petent negotiator, he offended at least some of his French hosts during trips here in July and again last month through his criticisms of French cooperation, notably the training of Libyan pilots and the delivery of spare parts for the 15 or so Mirage jets that have been delivered to Libya.

His second trip here, which had been scheduled for Sept. 8, was postponed until Sept. 13, apparently because of Col. Qadhafi's surprise resignation Sept. 11.

Despite his abruptness, he is regarded by practically all sides as easier to deal with than the intransigent colonel. The reports reaching here also tended to establish that there was an assassination attempt made on Col. Qadhafi near Tripoli Sept. 13, nor was he personally hurt in an automobile crash.

The colonel was on his way to the Tripoli airport to greet Nigerian President Hassan Duri when a truck rammed two of his escort motorcycles, demolishing them. Col. Qadhafi was not hurt, however, and was seen at the airport a few minutes later in the company of Mr. Duri.

When the Socialists swept to victory, Mr. Kresky was left short of an absolute majority. The party won 81 of the 165 parliamentary seats.

The government has followed a pragmatic rather than an outright Socialist path and the Chancellor's reiterated statements that no new nationalization is planned have reassured the least-likely conservative Austrian public.

Opponents of the government complain of rising prices, but the government can point to the country's favorable economic growth rate.

Russia Ousts Or Bans 18 in Retaliation

(Continued from Page 1) British trade will depend, it was suggested, on London's next steps. British officials would not venture a forecast tonight.

In addition to calling off Sir Alec's visit to Moscow next year, the Soviet Foreign Ministry also said in its diplomatic note that it was cancelling the visit to London next month by the Soviet Minister of Foreign Trade, Nikolai Patolich, and a visit here by Julian Amery, the British Housing Minister.

Comment in London LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP).—The Foreign Office declined to comment tonight on the Soviet action, but an informant said privately that the move is not very harsh.

All 90 Soviet diplomats and trade officials expelled from Britain two weeks ago have left for Moscow, government sources said.

Foreign Office spokesman said today: "We are aware of the disappearance... As is usual in these cases, a request from the Czechoslovak Embassy for inquiries to be made as to her well-being has been passed to the police through the Home Office."

Israel Finds 'Erosion' JERUSALEM, Oct. 8 (UPI).—Israel said it clear through the local press today that it sees a "serious erosion" in U.S. policy toward an interim Middle East settlement and will resist making any concessions under pressure.

Every major newspaper came out with virtually the same report, indicating that a high-ranking member of the government had briefed them collectively. The articles were attributed to "sources in Jerusalem."

The nation's largest circulation paper, Ma'ariv, said Israel was about to begin an intensive propaganda campaign in the United States against the six-point Rogers settlement.

The Jerusalem Post said that Mr. Rogers's points appeared to put Washington on Israel's side of the conflict, according to the source.

At the heart of the controversy is Mr. Rogers's contention that there is room for compromise on the duration of a cease-fire in a Suez agreement and on the issue of Egyptian troops crossing the canal.

Premier Golda Meir answered that the cease-fire must be unlimited and that no Egyptian military force should be allowed onto the Israeli-occupied east bank of the waterway.

The Post said U.S. officials had led Israel to understand there would be no Egyptian military crossing. This, it added, is where Israel notes "the main change and erosion in the present American position."

Chaban and Giscard Are Invited to China PARIS, Oct. 8 (Reuters).—A Peking government delegation led by External Trade Minister Lai Fuding met with Chinese Prime Minister Jacques Chaban Delmas today and invited him to visit China.

The invitation follows one issued last night to Finance Minister Valéry Giscard d'Estaing. No dates were set for the visits.

They will be to comply by a committee of state and local officials the President. DURATION—The controls will remain in effect if until the government is satisfied that inflationary pressure under check. The President will ask Congress to end year the authority to impose the restraints, which is to expire on April 30, 1972.

Connally Asks Labor's I On Phase 2 Economic I

(Continued from Page 1) said that he expects a number of trade barriers against U.S. exports to be removed within the next several months. He did not mention specific barriers.

He said it has never been a U.S. objective to require a comprehensive elimination of all trade barriers in the coming negotiations over the international monetary system.

Mr. Connally said the atmosphere for negotiating a huge turnabout in the U.S. payments deficit "is excellent."

Mr. Connally, who soon will go to Europe for a conference with finance ministers of the Group of Ten countries said the United States is making progress in breaking the deadlock on international monetary matters.

"I think they recognize our problem and we recognize theirs," Mr. Connally said. "We want our balance of payments improved. It is a goal we can be improved, in a sense, is to the detriment of others. Other nations have to give up something in order for us to gain something."

The United States has refused to end a 10 percent surcharge on imports until the payments problem is improved through revaluation of currencies, removal of trade barriers and sharing of defense costs.

"It is tough for them to do that and we know that," Mr. Connally said. "But, he added, 'Turn about is fair play. We have got to run a surplus for a while.'"

Mr. Connally spent most of the day at the State Department. He said that inflationary pressure has been "halted and broken."

Nixon's Press Generally Favors My Plan's Second Phase

By Carroll Kilpatrick

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (UPI)—The reaction to President Nixon's new economic package generally favorable to the President's plan's second phase.

Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said the President's plan was "reasonable" and "agreed to back them."

The gravity of the unemployment and inflation problems should give him support we can be sure to give him.

Sen. Frank Lautenberg, Republican, praised the President's plan and promised to support it.

Sen. James Buckley, Republican, also praised the President's plan and promised to support it.

4 California Firefighters Perish As Gust of Wind Whips Flames

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Four firefighters were killed and two others were injured as flames whipped by an unexpected wind caught the men on the flank of a two-day-old brush fire, authorities said.

The men were operating bulldozers scraping out a fire break on a ridge last night and "the flames shot up in the air and engulfed the three 'dozers,'" said Jim Eidenour, manager of an ambulance company.

A Forest Service spokesman said the flare-up was caused by a sudden gust of wind.

Before the flare-up, a 1,000-man force had begun to check the advance of the blaze, which had injured seven persons and destroyed at least seven expensive homes. The fire had swept over more than 3,400 acres of heavy brushland near the communities of Montecito and Summerland.

Orders From Harry Bridges West Coast Dockers Back on Job

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8 (UPI)—The 15,000 striking Pacific Coast dockworkers heeded union leader Harry Bridges' back-to-work call today and ended the longest dock strike in West Coast history—100 days.

The longshoremen had ignored a federal court order obtained by the Nixon administration under the Taft-Hartley Act to halt the walkout.

But when Mr. Bridges sent telegrams yesterday to local union leaders, they began returning to the docks to work.

In Chicago, 225 striking grain-elevator workers heeded the federal court's return-to-work order and ended their walkout.

Muskie Claims Support of Three Black Leaders

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (UPI)—Sen. Edmund Muskie said yesterday he had won the endorsement of three black community leaders as a presidential candidate, despite his earlier statement that he did not think he could win with a Negro running mate.

The Maine Democrat's office here identified the three as Thomas Kilgore, the first black president of the American Baptist Convention, Arnett Harfield, of Los Angeles, and Willis Edwards, president of the student body of California State College.

Sen. Muskie said after attending a September meeting in Los Angeles of black community leaders, including Mr. Harfield and Mr. Edwards, that he did not think he could be elected with a Negro as his vice-presidential candidate.

Blount Won't Retract Call For Boycott of French Goods

ANAHEIM, Calif., Oct. 8 (AP)—Postmaster General Winton M. Blount has declined to back away from his call for a boycott of French goods to force a crack-down on heroin production.

Speaking Monday in Dallas, Mr. Blount said 80 percent of the heroin reaching the United States comes through France, and he urged a boycott of French goods.

His remarks prompted a quick disclaimer from the State Department and a flurry of diplomatic activity in Paris where U.S. representatives said Mr. Blount's statement was his alone, not that of the administration.

But last night, speaking before an Anaheim meeting of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States, Mr. Blount said:

"The State Department, by its very function, must act through diplomatic channels to accomplish its goals. I believe that diplomacy will not do the job quickly enough, and this is why I believe American citizens must involve themselves, and deal with the matter not diplomatically through government representatives, but directly."

Mr. Blount said he and some members of the administration differ in their views on how to stem the flow of narcotics. But, he said, "It is more important to avoid embarrassing the French, or is it more important to act firmly and forcefully against a problem that the President has called public enemy number one?"

"For myself, I am willing to see French pride and the narcotics trade in France sacrificed to the welfare and health of American children," he said.

State Department press officer Charles W. Bray said Tuesday the administration is "pleased and grateful for the cooperation the French government extended in efforts to control the manufacture and trafficking in heroin."

U.S., France Sign Auto Safety Pact

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—The United States and France signed an agreement yesterday by which they will cooperate in the development of experimental safety vehicles. Ambassador Charles Lucet of France and U.S. Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe signed it at a ceremony in the Transportation Department here.

The United States already is developing experimental safety vehicles in the standard-size family sedan class. France will concentrate on smaller safety vehicles.

France joins West Germany, Britain and Italy in a group of NATO countries sponsoring safety vehicle developments. The United States also has signed a similar agreement with Japan and is conducting discussions with Sweden.

Guards Put Down N.M. Prison Riot

SANTA FE, N.M., Oct. 8 (AP)—Guards at New Mexico's State Penitentiary used tear gas and clubs to break up a 1 1/2 hour disturbance yesterday.

Seven inmates were injured after prison officials ordered prisoners to end "immediately" a boycott of meals and work routines. No guards were reported injured.

Warden Felix Rodriguez said nearly all the prison's 573 inmates began the boycott Wednesday morning in support of a wide-ranging list of demands for improvements in prison life. Violence started in one cell block yesterday.

Spanish General in U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Manuel Diaz-Alegría Gutierrez, chief of the Spanish general staff, received a 19-gun salute and full military honors on arriving at the Pentagon yesterday. Gen. Diaz-Alegría is on a 10-day tour of U.S. military bases.

Blacks Appeal to Vatican for Reforms

ward B. Fiske

Oct. 8 (UPI)—A delegation of American black Catholics carried the church's greater Negro affairs to the Vatican.

The delegation, which arrived in Rome Sunday, consisted of six representatives of lay, priest and sister organizations in the United States. Among them was Charles Hammock, chairman of the board of the National Office of Black Catholics.

The American blacks said that they conveyed several concrete objectives to Bishop Benelli, including naming a black archbishop in Washington upon the retirement of Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle, creating a special black rite comparable to that already existing for the oriental churches, and forming a black American representation in the Roman Curia.

Mr. Dulin said that Bishop Benelli had indicated that initiative for changes of this sort would have to come from the American hierarchy itself and had compared their problem to that of the Basque minority in Spain, trying to gain power through official channels.

People of Faith

Nevertheless, he stated that the visit had been marked by good will and added, "We are people of faith and will go back to our American bishops."

At the regular Friday news conference held by the American delegation to the current synod of bishops, John Cardinal Dearden, of Detroit, indicated that he and his colleagues were available to talk to the visiting blacks.

W. V. D. Poet, U.S.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (UPI)—W. V. D. Poet, one of the foremost poets of his generation, is scheduled to visit the United States, the 37-year-old poet's appearance at the Phillips Hall in New York after the Union of Poets had his visa re-issued.

Mr. Voznesensky said his action in coming to the United States was "a Soviet man being made of wood, not a puppet to a string."

Mr. Voznesensky's tour, which is a reading at the Congress in Washington was disclosed yesterday.

W. Warner, president of the World League of Poets, said his itinerary includes a stop in New York on Nov. 10, as well as visits to colleges and universities across the country.

Mr. Voznesensky said he had announced to Rostropovich, the famed Soviet pianist, that he had received a Soviet visa to visit the United States.

All-Night Hamburger Bars Fall Before Women's Lib in Britain

LONDON, Oct. 8 (AP)—British Women's Lib today proclaimed its first major victory. Unaccompanied girls henceforth will be served in the capital's all-night "hamburger havens." The battle of the Wimpy bars started a year ago. Liberated women staged a series of demonstrations against the rule of Empire Catering, the company which runs them, that no woman without a male escort would be served between midnight and 5 a.m. "Instant sexual discrimination," the Lib girls called it. The company, however, considered itself bound by an act which makes it an offense for café keepers to permit prostitutes to assemble on their premises. Their staff, they explained, had difficulty in sorting out genuine customers from those who were looking for customers. "What about male prostitutes?" demanded the women. No one had an answer to that one, and after a year of nighttime sit-ins and daytime boycott the company called peace talks.

Italy Approves Tax Reform, Reduces Chances of Evasion

ROME, Oct. 8 (UPI)—The Italian parliament ended nine years of debate on a sweeping tax reform last night by passing a measure that will shift the burden of taxation from indirect to direct taxes and make them harder to evade. The Chamber of Deputies' approval of Senate revisions of the bill brought into law one of the most important tax reforms in Italy's history and represented a major political victory for the coalition government of Premier Emilio Colombo. The reforms wipe from the books 28 taxes, including a levy on salt that dates to Imperial Rome, and replaces them with six taxes—four on income and two on consumers. The new law, which will go into effect Jan. 1, also provides for penalties for tax evaders, but these have not yet been decided on. Among the taxes being struck are those on playing cards, phonograph records, natural and synthetic fibers, radio and television, vegetable oils, vinegar, electric lights, telephones and property taxes. The law also provides for improvements, and some of the duties on gas and cigarettes, both of which are among the highest taxed in the world. The new measures include a graduated tax on personal incomes and profits, a local tax on earnings and a tax on increases in property values. The consumer trades in one heavy tax, slightly lighter one under the reform. The new bill calls for an added value tax, which imposes a levy on goods at each stage from raw material to finished product, but the total will be less than the previous "turnover" tax. This increased the cost of goods at each stage and left the consumer with the full bill in the retail price. The main facet of the reform is that it simplifies the paying of taxes and leaves the taxpayer fewer loopholes to avoid paying. Before the reform, Italy drew 70 percent of its money from indirect taxation and had so complicated a system for personal taxes that a salaried worker might be faced with 26 taxes. Under the graduated scale, everyone making more than $2,200 must pay 10 percent in taxes. The tax increases to a maximum 72 percent for anyone making more than $800,000. Exemptions for dependents, medical services and other items will reduce a person's taxable income. The reforms also bring Italy into closer tax structure with its Common Market partners. The salaried worker will no longer have to draw up an income report or go to pay his taxes; they will be automatically deducted.

THEATER IN LONDON Smooth, Slick and Plausible Thri

By John Walker
LONDON, Oct. 8 (REX)—Francis Durbridge's first stage thriller "Suddenly at Home" (at the Fortune) has all the familiar ingredients that have made him one of the most popular television writers in Germany, France, Switzerland, Italy and Poland: a perfunctory approach to character and dialogue plus an extraordinary ability to keep an audience guessing and intrigued.

others to expiate his guilt. The first act consists mainly of a series of monologues, quasi-poetic evocations of London, capably delivered by Derek Griffiths as Oscar Pinal O'Flaherty Ngoko, a black Irishman who is a failed schoolteacher and a not-too-successful street cleaner. It has the sound of a rejected radio play and there is an obvious debt to the prose rhythms of Dylan Thomas.

It will be followed by a play with music by Oscar Wilde's "Occupation," with two revolutionaries during a crisis in Italy the workers' occupiers factories in 1920 before the blacklash.

A Durbridge character tends to be a killing bore, speaking in short sentences that have no purpose but to carry information. In real life, we would run from such people. On stage, a couple of hours in their company passes pleasantly due to Mr. Durbridge's way with his plot, which is ever thickening, full of sudden shocks, but never difficult to follow.

The second act is concerned with the interrogation of Oscar for the abduction of a 14-year-old girl by Inspector Jynpson (Norman Wooland), a policeman whose attitude is: "We are all of us guilty—especially you." The style here is black farce, but with Mr. Wooland stumping slowly around the stage under ineffective lighting, the result is rarely funny.

Next month, the Royal Shakespeare Company will at Aldwych Theatre, London club production Genet's "The Balcony"

The suspense here is whether Glenn Howard (Gerald Harper) will get away with the murder of his rich bitchy wife Maggie (Penelope Keith) by impaling her former lover, Mr. Durbridge has moved with the times, mixing in a little drug addiction and references to pornography. It is all very smooth, slick and plausible—apart from our hero's undue reliance on the telephone, which is in constant use and yet never yields a wrong number or a crossed line. That is taking fiction too far from reality.

John Osborne's "West of Suez" has transferred from the Royal Court to the Cambridge Theatre. A study of "the passing of empires," it is somewhat unsatisfactory.

Musicians M The World Symphony, composed of 140 from orchestras in 49 states and the District of Columbia, will convene in Oct. 19 for seven of concerts and conduct their Festival.

The Mercury Theatre in Notting Hill, having failed as a refuge for the avant-garde, has now been taken over by a new company, Aurora Productions, to present "productions which are intended as vehicles for professional writers and professional actors."

Le Theatre du Soleil's production of "1789: The French Revolution, Year One" opens for a short season at the Round House on Tuesday.

The Royal Shakespeare Company begins a nine-week season at a second London theater, the

Reported Bundesbank Seen Ready to Reduce in Discount Rate

FRANKFURT, Oct. 8 (AP-DJ).—West German credit policy of fairly high lending rates and high minimum reserve requirements is very likely to be reversed next week by the Bundesbank's central council, well informed sources said today. The council meets Wednesday and is expected to reduce drastically the minimum reserves requirement along with sharp cuts in the country's key lending rates, the discount and Lombard.

Informants strongly hinted at a discount rate cut to 4 percent from 5 percent now, a Lombard rate cut to 5.5 percent from 6.5 percent and a considerable reduction in the reserves requirement, now tying up some 33 billion deutsche marks at the Bundesbank.

The discount rate applies to banks borrowing at the Bundesbank against bills, while the Lombard rate is for borrowing against securities.

Liquidity Release There are no indications how much minimum reserves will be lowered, but estimates for an effective 2 billion DM to 4 billion DM of liquidity to be released from the reserves requirements.

Economic Analysis Setting the Wage-Price Rules

By Hobart Rowen WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (WP).—President Nixon has created a price and wage control structure that has a good chance of working, but has left the really tough and critical decisions—the setting of specific guidelines—to 22 private citizens who will compose a new pay board and a price commission.

The Elements of Nixon's Plan For Controlling U.S. Inflation

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (NYT).—The machinery announced by President Nixon yesterday to control inflation after the current wage-price freeze consists of the following elements. The Council of Living Council, the supreme organization in the structure, will supervise and monitor the entire program and advise the President. The council is headed by Secretary of the Treasury John B. Connally and is composed of nine members.

The interest and dividend committee, headed by Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, will monitor interest rates and watch dividends in an effort to keep them stable.

A committee on health services industry will deal with special problems related to that field and make recommendations to the Council of Living Council.

A committee on state and local government cooperation will handle the special problems, such as rates in a variety of fields, that are set by the federal, state and local governments.

The construction industry stabilization commission, with four members each representing the public, industry and labor, will continue its program designed to stabilize wages in the construction industry.

The productivity commission, a study group now working to find ways to improve productivity rates in industry, will continue with an expanded membership. It will advise the Council of Living Council.

The service and compliance administration, consisting of 3,000 field officers of the Internal Revenue Service, will be the primary service agency in the field to answer questions and bring complaints from the public arising from the anti-inflation program.

The Justice Department will be responsible for all litigation arising from the new program.

The business group believed that cutting the inflation rate to between 2 and 3 percent a year was a "practical and attainable goal."

General Motors Corp. chairman James Roche said Mr. Nixon's program "is a clear necessity if we are to reduce inflation and increase employment."

Phase 2, Mr. Roche said, "transcends all private interests (and) merits the full support of the American people."

Mr. Roche said nothing about seeking price relief for General Motors, but he pledged GM would do its part "wholeheartedly and without reservation."

The full-cooperation attitude was echoed by other business leaders. E. Sherman Adams, senior vice-president of Philadelphia's Fidelity Bank, said: "I think the new program is definitely constructive... Assuming that organized labor adopts a reasonably cooperative attitude (the program) should make a significant contribution to bringing the rate of inflation down over the coming year."

T. Vincent Larson, chairman and chief executive of International Business Machines Inc., called Mr. Nixon's speech a "very impressive appeal to the American people and American corporations to win their support to stop inflation."

N.Y. Prices Decline After Nixon Speech

By Vartan G. Vartan NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (NYT).—The stock market took a look today at Phase 2 and turned down amid somewhat murky conditions. Closing at its lowest level of the session, the Dow Jones Industrial Average tumbled 7.89 to finish at 893.91.

It was a market conspicuously devoid of hoopla, with investors attempting to weigh the pros and cons of President Nixon's address last night on what happens to the economy when Phase 1 expires on Nov. 13.

Analysts, by and large, detected no major surprises in the plans to follow the present wage-price freeze with an unspecified period of close government supervision.

Some observers said that stock prices had gone up unduly in advance of the President's speech—particularly with a 9.41 point in the Dow on Wednesday—and that the market pulled back to await specifics of the economic stabilization program.

Westinghouse Falls Westinghouse Electric, dropping 3 5/8 to 93 3/4 in profit-taking, was the highest point loser among the active issues. It traded at a 1971 high of 97 3/4 yesterday.

The only other point-plus losers among the 15 most active issues were two stocks at the top of the volume list. These were White Consolidated Industries, down 2 1/8 to 21 3/4, and Clark Equipment, off 1 3/4 to 43.

Also on the active list were Luums, up 5/8 to 6 3/8, and Pan American World Airways, off 1/4 to 9 3/4 after selling at a yearly low of 8 1/2.

Luums, which showed improved profits two days ago, rose 1 5/8 yesterday. Pan Am, meanwhile, was weak for the second day, partly mirroring conjecture of a possible management shakeup for the overseas carrier.

Other airlines posted fractional gains. American Airlines rose 3/4 to 39 and made a high after showing gains in advance bookings.

Blue Chips Off Most blue chips moved lower, with Standard Oil of New Jersey and Owens-Illinois each falling 1 1/8. General Motors slipped 1/2 to 84 3/4. American Telephone declined 7/8 to 44 3/8.

Among the glamourous, Corning Glass fell 5/8 to 220, bringing its total loss for the week to 16 1/2. Corning has been depressed by at least two factors—a secondary offering and some criticism expressed by analysts of the stock's price-earnings ratio.

Both Conquest and International Business Machines dropped more than 3. Down by 3 or more were Simplicity Pattern, Cincinnati Milacron, Winnebago Industries, Harris Intertype and Itek.

Some stocks apparently suffered today from omission of any reference in Mr. Nixon's speech to the proposed investment tax credit.

Employment Increase Employment in September rose substantially on a seasonally adjusted basis, the department noted, rising to a record high of 79.5 million from 79.2 million in August.

Manufacturing employment increased 130,000 to 18.8 million last month-to-month gain in more than five years, with the exception of two months when strikers were returning in their jobs in the automobile industry.

In a comment, Labor Secretary James Hodgson said the unemployment figures showed that "the labor market continues to show a need for the economic stimulation of the President's proposed measures."

"The persistence of the current level of unemployment should provide further incentive for moving the President's new tax measures rapidly through Congress," he added.

Jeffrey Moore, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, told the Joint Economic Committee the drop in the unemployment rate was not statistically significant, but he thought the total employment increase was important.

Mr. Moore also said the wholesale price index concerning those prices covered by the 90-day freeze remains stable despite an overall drop of 0.4 percent. He said most of the decline in the index came from agricultural products not covered by the wage-price freeze.

Bank Results Indicate End Of 'Squeeze'

NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (NYT).—Chemical New York Corp. reported yesterday a 7.1 percent decline in third-quarter operating results and a decline for the first nine months of 5.7 percent.

The results appeared to confirm earlier indications that the squeeze on bank profits, if not over, has eased significantly.

Chemical New York is the holding company for Chemical Bank, the sixth largest in the country. Bankers Trust New York is the parent of Bankers Trust Co., seventh largest.

Both institutions managed to increase their profit margins during the first three quarters, but both saw their rates of return on stockholders' equity decline.

Commenting on the quarter-to-quarter decline, William S. Renchard, Chemical's chairman, declared that it principally reflected a "lower spread between the cost of over-all funds acquired and the income earned on invested assets; and a loss incurred on the discontinuance of the operations of a data-processing subsidiary."

Speaking at a news conference at the Chilton Embassy here, Mr. Almeida stressed that the compensation terms were still being worked out by the Chilean government and would not be announced until Oct. 15.

However, he implied that because the rich copper mines being taken over were, in certain cases, jointly owned by Anaconda Co., Kennecott Copper Corp. and the Chilean government, the American companies would not bear the full brunt of the deduction for excess profits.

Business Reacts Favorably To Nixon's Economic Plan

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (IHT).—President Nixon's Phase 2 program brought largely favorable reaction today from the nation's industrialists, "experts" and the financial community.

But many members of the business community were searching for more guidance as to how the plans to curb excessive wage and price increases will be enforced.

The National Association of Manufacturers said industry would cooperate to the fullest with the President's program.

Chile Hints at Compromise Over Copper Nationalization

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 (NYT).—Chile's foreign minister hinted strongly yesterday that his government would reduce by about one half the "excess profits" to be deducted from the compensation it pays to U.S. copper interests for their nationalized properties in Chile.

Clodomiro Almeida Medina, the foreign minister, said that Chile may now deduct between $300 million and $400 million from the compensation rather than $774 million, as previously announced.

Speaking at a news conference at the Chilton Embassy here, Mr. Almeida stressed that the compensation terms were still being worked out by the Chilean government and would not be announced until Oct. 15.

However, he implied that because the rich copper mines being taken over were, in certain cases, jointly owned by Anaconda Co., Kennecott Copper Corp. and the Chilean government, the American companies would not bear the full brunt of the deduction for excess profits.

Marked Shift This appeared to be a marked shift from the position taken publicly—and privately—by high Chilean officials in recent days.

On Sept. 28, President Salvador Allende Gossens, a Marxist, announced in a nationwide speech that under powers granted him by the newly amended constitution he was deducting $774 million in alleged excess profits from the compensation to be paid the U.S. concerns.

However, last night Mr. Almeida referred privately to Henry A. Kissinger, the White House national security adviser, and there were reliable reports that both men had agreed to try to keep ideological differences from hampering a mutually agreeable financial settlement.

They are said to have agreed that what Chile called the "one-time" copper nationalization issue should not jeopardize long-term U.S.-Chilean relations.

The Chilean government—the first Marxist regime ever elected in that country—is a coalition including Communists, extreme Socialists and left-wing radicals.

CRIMINALS AT LARGE
Reviewed by Newgate Callendar

EVERYTHING about "The Candyvine Development" by John Morris (Citadel, $6.95) is very much a la mode. One member of the detective team is a malleable black lady—and that is of course intensely a la mode these days. The writing is lean, objective and smooth in its post-Ambler style. The plotting is complicated: half the time, it is hard to figure out what the hell is going on. That too is a la mode.

The idea is to wrap up, most neatly, the apparently diverse elements. All detective stories do that, but in the classic ones there is no obfuscation aside from false clues. In this modern detective espionage story things can be so confused that the reader's plot line is unclear until the final resolution.

"The Candyvine Development" is an old podrida of Mafia, Chicanos, the Jamaican police, Russians and Americans. Morris (the pen name of two English writers) has put together a book that in some ways is an exemplar of its kind. People move in mysterious ways. Motivations are blurred. But there is a constant feeling of mounting excitement, as Morris skillfully maintains the tension. At the end everything does make sense, far-fetched as the denouement may be.

And his writing is sharp, tough, often sensitive. Thus, an elegant businessman greets his guests in a restaurant "in ten seconds of calculated movement and speech that was as elegant and economical as a series of passes by a bullfighter: the stylistic necessities of a trade where the business lynch had become the preliminary to the moment of truth." Ellis 'Ready to Go' World Series Opener

After a meeting with the scouts who followed the Pirates, the Baltimore manager said Jim Palmer, a right-hander, would start the second game and Mike Cuellar, a left-hander, would go in game No. 3.

Pat Dobson, the other right-hander, will be available in the bullpen and, if necessary, as a starter for the fourth game. Although Murtagh expressed caution over Ellis's availability, the 26-year-old right-hander had no doubt that he would be able to pitch.

"I'm ready to go," the 19-game winner said after throwing to catcher Manny Sanguillen at Memorial Stadium. "My arm didn't hurt. It felt good. This is the same problem I've had all season. There's just a lot more attention focused on it because it's the World Series."

through the green. I can stay up with the rest of them, I reckon he's the best." Player has been brooding about his hooking. Yesterday he had been playing off his right foot with the left leg bent and toe pointed to stop turning on the ball. Today he scorned the gimmick just in case he was 2 down after Charles had eagle, birdie, eagle on 12, 14 and 15. Then the little South African got going. He won five holes running between the 17th and 22d, including three successive birdies. And he putted superbly. He had 26 over the morning round with eight one-putt greens, Charles had 31.

NFL Cowboys' Thomas Is Activated

By William N. Wallace NEW YORK, Oct. 8 (NYT)—The Dallas Cowboys activated the controversial running back Duane Thomas last week on the deadline. Pete Rozelle, National Football League commissioner, had given them to take Thomas back or put him on waivers.

Associated Press. CAST AWAY—New York Jet quarterback Joe Namath had the cast taken off his foot and displays scars of recent surgery on the bench at victory over Dolphins.

Texas Quarterback Phillips To Start Against Oklahoma

From Wire Dispatches NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Every Oklahoma football fan wants to see every second of the war that is the Oklahoma-Texas game in the Cotton Bowl tomorrow. That stadium holds only 70,000—more hands at the Texas and Sooners who consider their game a crusade.

Andretti Dropped By STP Racing

CHICAGO, Oct. 8 (AP)—Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa. winner of the Indianapolis 500, was released today, effective in 1972, by Andy Granatelli's STP auto racing team. "Although we had one of the best seasons in all U.S. racing history with Mario in 1969, our USAC (United States Auto Club) results during the past year have not been satisfactory," Granatelli said. Andretti, 31, will make his final appearance in a STP-Monaco racer in the final U.S. Auto Club race at Phoenix on Oct. 23.

Italy's Arcari Defends Title Against Spaniard

GENOVA, Oct. 8 (AP)—Bruno Arcari of Italy, who has only lost twice in 47 bouts, both times because of cuts on his eyebrows, is expected to retain his World Boxing Council world junior-welterweight boxing crown tomorrow in little fight against Spanish challenger Domingo Barrera Correas. Arcari, 29, has successfully defended the crown five times. On the same program, former world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali will box three two-round exhibitions.
